LOUISVILLE JOURNAL The brilliant Senator from Oregon, E. D.

Baker, was, not a great many years ago, a weaver in Philadelphia, and is eminently a self-made man. The following is a singular coincidence in his history: At the time of the Mexican war, Senator Baker was a Representative from Illinois, and made his first speech (or one among his first) in favor of that war. Those who remember it say that he created as great a sensation in the House as he did in his reply to Breckinridge the other day in the Senate. At that time he wes with the South, and ardently an advecate of a wer which was undertaken to aggrandise the South, and give her a great part of the territory which she now seeks to steal. Then he was for placing the Union flag over Tex 13, and rescuing her from Mexican bondage. Now he is for restoring the Union flag to Texas, and rescuing her from secession bondage. Then he was commander of regiment in the service of the Republic; now he is commander of a regiment in the service of the Republic.

An attempt was made on Sunday to thro he express train over the Little Miami Bailroad off the track into the river a short distance above the curre, near Fort Ancient. A tie was fastened across the treck, and braced down with two other ties, in such a manner that it would have been impossible for the train to rnn upon it without falling into the river. By good fortune a single locomotive happened to be sent down ten minutes in advance of the express. It cut the obstruc-tion half through and fell against the high bank. The train was detained several hours in getting by this point.

THE SICK AND WOUNDED.—The Surgeon-General reports the sick and wounded in the various nospitals under the cherge of Government. They sum up-at the General Hospital, E street, agton, 225; at the General Hospital, C street, Washington, 65; at Columbia College, Washington, 258; at Union Hospital, Georgeown, 206; at Miss English's Seminary, Georgetown, 181-inaking a total of 935 in all the hospitals on that side of the river. The hospitals at Alexandria are not included.

New Orders, July 22.

F. A. Crocker, Equ:

My Desce Sir: The present awful state of effairs in our once happy country is my excuse for addressing you at this time—my object to ask your full and candid opinion with regard to the duration of the war, and what you think will be that effect appears to the duration of the war, and what you think will be that effect appears in completely destroyed—there is no other branch that I can engage in, and what little means I have will soon he oxbansted. My business was never so good as it had been up to April hast. I had (and have) an active partner, whose faithful services of many years I was glad to rewerd by giving him an interest. Our relations everywhere were being extended; and the struggles which I had been making for twenty years with fortune, seemed about to be crumed with success—but you know the disastrous change. My object is to a k of you if you think there is any chance of my getting a living in New York, or gelling any samplayment suited to my capabities. I think I may say, without self conceit, that I am a first-rate book keeper, and would be a useful person in any business beusa, as cashier or manager. I may not have the activity which I had fifteen years ago, hind now fully-nine, make myself useful to any house that might require my services.

It seems to me, that in almost any event this place is fatally injured. Even in case of a peace, by a separation of the North and South, it seems to me that we shall have a slavery despetion here that none lust slaveholers can live nuler. Added to this, who will trust the South when repuliprecisely as written:

ded to this, who will trust the South when repulsation seems to be indelibly written upon its policy? Free discussion is destroyed, and if the South ever gains its independence (as it is called here), all free literature must be abelished, and that only admitted which justifies and recommends the "peculiar institution." If this gigantic insurrection is overcome, still what becomes of the South! suffers the same loss of regulation that South It suffers the same loss of reputation that South Carolina did in millification times, and a similar stignur rests upon it, which stignur cannot be re-proved until profiler generation, who shall be boyal to the United Statos Government, shall come upon the slage. The divisione were ordered to march at half past two o'cleck A. M., to at b arrive on the ground early in the day, and thus avoid the heat which is to be expected at this season. There was delay in the first division getting out of its camp outher road, and the other divisions were in consequence between two and three hours behind the time appointed—a great misfortume, as events turned out. The wood road leading from the Warrenton turnpike to the upper ford was much longer than we counted upon, the general direction of the stream being oblique to the road, and we having the obtuse angle ou our side.

Gen. Tyler commenced with his artillery at half past aix A. NEW YORK, August 11.

Our correspondent on board the sloop-of-war Brooklyn, off the month of the Mississippi, gives some interesting information relative to the condition of alfairs at New Orleans derived from a deserter of the rebel army, who made his escape down the Mississippi. He resched the vessel in safety after considerable bardship. The city according to his account is in a fearfal condition of terrorism, caused by bands of cut-throat soldiere stationed there, and who are in a most complete state of demoralization and commit acts of the basest neture. Houses had been entered, families broken up, and men had been threatened with the direct vengeance unless their wants were supplied. Provisions of every kind were very scarce and consequently very high and many of the poorer portions of the community were suffacing terribly.

Notwithstanding the apparent unanimity of the people on the question of scession there is a strong Union element under the surface, which only awaits the proper opportunity to make itself known and terribly telt. The man from whom this information was received confirms the reports which have heretofore reached us relative to the plan for the destruction of the Brooklyn and other blackading vessels.

of Sevannah, loaded with 270 pipes of molares, worth $5 000; she was calibred on Cape llatters by the recessionist, together with Lieut, Kan'z, the prize master and six men.

There are two deserted l'i de States marines among the prisoners, and one man who evidently came right out of the hospital. They are all well fed and cared far but are quite surly.

The St. Lawrence, at the time the Petrel ran for her, had her ports closed, and her sails set merchant fashion, and the commander of the had run too close to retreat. He then determined to fire into 'the St. Lawrenca and did so with both grape and round shot, without, however, doing any damage of consequence. The St. Lawrence then replied with twesty heavy gune, loaded with that and shell, the effect of which was to sink the Petrel at once. Thirty-six of her officers and crow were picked up by the frighter boate, and the rest, eight in number, were either killed or drewned.
